After calling the attention of the jury to the case of Mrs. Levy, who was killed by the Twenty-third street jigger. Coroner Messemer asked that just as much care be had in examining into the killing of a poor Italian boy as into that of a rich woman like Mrs. Levy.

Levy.

The first witness examined was Patrolman John McGrath, of the Prince street'station who a rested the driver of the car, Charles Herold, of 244 Avenue A. He said that Herold told him that he did not know he had run over a child until he was stopped by the people who told him of the accident.

he did not know he had run over a child until he was stepped by the people who told him of the accident.

Giovani Fussari, the Italian undertaker of Park street, witnessed the accident. He was about hity feet away. The Martel child was standing in the centre of the track picking something from the payement and the car was approaching behind the boy about twenty-five feet away.

The driver was looking towards the west midd of the street. Mr. Fussari testified that he called at the top of his voice to the driver, who never looked around but ran over the child and went on thirty feet before he was stopped. Mr. Fussari was certain that lievold could have stopped the car had he been attending to his business.

Mrs. Ida Jarvis, coloced, of 168 Thompson street, nother eye witness of the faiality, aid that there was quite a crowd who saw the child run over, and that they were all shouting at the driver, but his geze continued averted to the side of the street, and a crowd of people had to charge upon the car and foreibly stop it before the mangled form could be extricated from beneath the wheels.

This witness said that Herold was frightened and tried to whip up his horses and get away.

said that there was a great deal of shouting, but the driver paid no attention to it.

The driver, Heroid, who was discharged after his examination before Police Justice Welde, was rearrested, charged with man-laughter on the Coroner's warrant at the inquest to-day, and held in $2,500 bail, the widence adduced showing him to have been wally of grown perligence. An adjournment of the inquest was taken until Tuesday next at 11 A. M.

WHO IS THIS POLICEMAN.

A Blackmailing Schome Revealed to Mayor Hewitt.

A tall young Italian girl, who keeps a fruit stand within the stoop line, with the consent of the property owner, called on Mayor Hewitt this morning and told him that the policeman on her beat, to whom she had previously paid $25, called again this morning and demanded $25 more, and threatened to have her stand taken away unless she paid it.

"You go right back and get the number of that policeman and come and let me know," said the Mayor, "and you will get your $25 back. That will be the first thing. In the mean time don't pay a cent to anybody and if anybody attempts to disturb you come to me. But first bring me that officer's number and I will take care of his case."

Not Yet Invited to Speak at or Attend the Thurman Mass-Meeting.

Mayor Hewitt has not as yet been invited to speak, or even to be present at Thursday night's great reception and demonstration in honor of Judge Thurman.

The Mayor said to-day to an Evening Woold reporter: "No, I have not been invited to attend the Thurman meeting at the Madison Square Garden. I see by the papers that Judge Thurman is to be there and that is all I know about it.

Your invitation may come to-day, Mr. Mayor." suggested the reporter.

Comedian Warren Dying.

POSTON, Sept. 4.—William Warren, the favorit Bo-ton comedian, is in a precarious condition at his room in Bulfinch place. Visitors at the house to-day are met by Mrs. Fisher, the famous old landlady who has cared for him for years, and told in response to inquiry "that the old gentleman is a little better to-day, we think. He seems more comfortable."

Despite this encouraging information, the fact remains that Mr. Warren's life is fast chibing away, lie suffers considerably.

Thurman was looking in excellent health and was entirely free from the neuralgia which lately attacked him.

"Judge Thurman met the delegation cordially," says Gen. Kearney: "and when told that the laboring people of New York were anxious that he should speak to them on the tariff question, the vital issue of the campaign, he consented readily.

"The meeting will be held Saturday night in the large ball in Newark, where 7.000 persons can gather. Judge Thurman will go directly home at the close of the meeting."

Judge Thurman's exact hour of arrival in this city has not yet been fixed. But he will notify Chairman Brice by telegraph, and a committee headed by Col. Brice will meet him at the depot and escort him to his hotel.

SHALL THEY DIG COSEY UP?

WOODLAWN LOT-OWNERS DECLARE THAT THE DOG MUST GO.

The Mistress of the Dead Terrier Equally Resolved that Her Pet Shall Remain in Its Present Grave-Prospect for a Brisk Legal Fight Over the Transfer of the Canine Remains.

So says Vice-President Knevals, of the Woodlawn Cemetery Association, referring to the remains of Cosey Bell, the deceased Scotch terrier, which Mrs. Mary A. Bell, of 62 West Thirty-eighth street, had buried on Aug. 15 last in a plot in that cometery purchased especially for that purpose.

"There is no alternative," continued the officer, who has just returned to the city from his summer vacation, "for ever since the interment of that animal took place, we have been receiving indignant protests from the lot-owners in the cemetery, who demand that it shall be removed at once, As they represent about six thousand people, it is evident that some consideration must be paid to their wishes. The feeling of repugnance on their part is a

The feeling of repugnance on their part is a natural one, and I don't blame them at all "
'Do you think that any legal obstacle will be placed in the way of such action?"
'I don't think any valid objection can be made to it. Of course we do not enumerate in the deed the different uses to which a lot in the cemetery may not be put by a purchaser, but simply say that it is to be used as a place of burial for the dead. Some things go without saying, and naturally we would not suppose that such a lot would be used for a burial-place for dogs, cats, parrots or canary birds. We would as soon think it necessary to specifically prohibit the owner from erecting a beer saloon on his plot.

owner from erecting a beer saloon on his plot.

"Then again, we did not know that the dog was buried there until some time after the interment. It was un terstood when Mrs. Bell purchased the lot and ordered a grave dug that it was for a child. She was very reticent upon the subject at the time. On the following day, when the undertaker telephoned to our office to inform us of the interment, the clerk replied that he knew all about it and spoke of Mrs. Bell's child.

"But it wasn't a child at all,' yelled back Mr. Winterbottom. 'It was a dog.' Then we were cut off, and the clerk, who did not hear very distinctly, thought he must have misunderstood what was said. He didn't, though, as he soon found out when the lot owners began to get stirred up about the matter."

owners began to get stirred up about the matter"

"Have you seen Mrs. Bell yet?"

"No, and I am afraid it will be pretty hard to see her, If I can I shall try to persuade her to have the dog removed without making any trouble for us. I will also discuss the matter with Mr. William A. Booth, the President of the Cemetery Association; but no action will be taken until a meeting of the directors is held, during the latter part of the week, and we shall then be able to inform the lot-wmers that the objectionable body has been removed."

"But how about Scotch Cosey?" she was asked. "They are going to dig her up and bury her in the barnyard."

"Oh, they can't do that. They haven't any right to." was the reply.

"How do you know that?"

"Because I have heard Mrs. Bell say so lots of times. She will not have Cosey's body disturbed."

It was understood from one of Mrs. Bell's acquaintances that she is highly indignant over the attitude which the directors of the Cemetery Association have assumed in the matter, and proposes to fight for the right to bury her Cosey where she chooses to the bitter end.

She will employ legal counsel in order to establish her claims, and it is rumored that the directors will have to do some pretty lively fighting before they get the right to transplant Cosey's remains to the cemetery barnyard or to any other spot.

Labor men who were interviewed by EVENING WORLD reporters expressed very decided views, and most of them held Mayor Hewitt personally responsible for the fact that the flags had not been raised.

John Nolan, of Salesmen's Assembly 302, Knights of Labor, said : "Of course in pursuance of the course adopted by Mayor Hewitt in relation to labor in general nothing other than a snub could be expected by enmity to labor men and organizations in general has in this instance, as often before, shown itself. One would think, though that on a legal holiday the American flag should be displayed from the City Hall.

Louis P. Delaw, ex-President of Furniture and Carpet Employees' Council No. 3-In my opinion a committee should be appointed to inquire into Mayor Hewitt's sanity. He's gone daft on the question of flags.

Ed Sheehan, of the Stone Cutters—He is too small to say much about. Labor has its remedy at the polls and undountedly will exercise it.

Ernest Bohm, Secretary of the Central Labor Union—The omission was noted by the labor men. Mayor Hewitt is no admirer of workingmen, and this he has already made known. It was an insult and will not be forgotten."

Gregory Weinstein, of the Printing Trades' Section—Dyspepsia is one cause. Another is spleen.

Phil Kelly, President of the Theatrical Progressive Union—We expected such treatment at Hewitt's hands.

Grand Marshal Sullivan—I am not surprised at his action. If it was the other way then I would indeed be surprised.

Ed Finklestone, President of the Barbers' Union: The Mayor is foolish if he imagines that organized labor cares for his smiles. Nothing else can be expected from him.

Bob Davis, of the Board of Walking Delegates—The flag? What will I say? Merely that he don't know his own mind and that—well, never mind. You know the labor people's opinion of him.

Mayor Hewitt arrived at the City Hall at 10.30 o'clock this morning. He had spent Saturday, Sunday and Monday at his country residence at Ringwood, N. J.

The "instalment plan" has many small and contemptible features. It never falls to work injustice within the law, but one of the meat recent of its developments verges closely upon its outer edge. 'You see Labor Day is a new holiday, and there is nothing strange in forgetting about the City Hall flags in its celebration."

'Are not the flags hoisted on other holidays without the formality of an order?"

'No, sir. The Keeper of the City Hall always comes to me a day or two before a national or State holiday and receives an order to display the flags. I gave him an order to display them on the Fourth of July. If he had come to me and spoken to me about Labor Day, I would have given him an order. There is no reason why the flags should not be displayed on Labor Day. I see there is an effort to hold me responsible for the oversight. I do not see why this should be."

DR. HAMMOND'S BODY EXHUMED.

Three Dectors and a Coroner Try to Find Out If the Clergyman Was Polsoned.

Official inquiry in o the cause of the sudlen death of Rev. William Hammond, at his home in Ocean Grove a week ago, was begun in Brooklyn this morning.

The doctor's certificate of death set forth that Mr. Hammond had died with paralysis of the heart, but revelations made since his burial in Greenwood Cemetery led to the suspicion that death was caused by poison. Certain alleged friends of Mrs. Hammond, the widow are reported to have said that Mrs. Hammond was not as triendly in her feeling At any rate, a mystery has been made of case which it was plainly shown only an antopsy on the body could explain. Mrs. Hammond is worried beyond measure at the turn affairs had taken, and she wrote a letter to the coroner at Ocean Grove requesting an autopsy.

affairs had taken, and she wrote a letter to the coroner at Ocean Grove requesting an autopsy.

Accordingly, a number of Jersey officials came to Brooklyn for that purpose. Deputy Coroner Sexton, of Ocean Grove: Coroner F. M. Vanderveer, of Long Branch, and Dr. George Washington Brown, also of Long Branch, who savs he once owned a hatchet and cut down a tree, made up Now Jersey's representation.

They assembled in Coroner Rooney's office in Brooklyn early this morning. Coroner Rooney was detained by a case of sickness so that he did not arrive at his office until 11. 15. Meanwhile Deputy Coroner Kelly hunted around for a physician to aid Dr. Brown in making the autopsy, and also procured from the Brard of Health an order permitting the party to exhume the body of Mr. Hammond.

Som after Coroner Rooney arrived at his office the Jersey officials started for Greenwood to prepare the body in the reception vault of the cemetery for the examination and to get everything in readiness.

Coroner Rooney and Dr. J. M. Van Cott, of the Long Island College Hospital, followed later.

An Evening World reporter interviewed all of the officials mentioned, and none of them seemed to think that there was any ground for the suspicion that Mr. Hammond's dea'h was the result of poison. Nevertheless they were all very much interested in the case, and especially Coroner Rooney. Before he and Dr. Van Cott started for Greenwood he rehearsed to the doctor the cave in detail, and explained that while he did not believe there was "anything in it," he wanted a very careful examination made.

Dr. Brown, of Long Branch, treated the whole matter lightly, wondered if it would move along as lively as the North Star and was loaded with a host of witicisms that were quite appalling.
